

Frequently Asked Questions: ACA Enrollment

(Updated: November 2021)

OVERVIEW

The below information provides basic information on the Affordable Care Act (ACA) open enrollment period. California has its own marketplace and is covered in a later portion of this FAQ. Sixteen additional states and the District of Columbia have their open state portal. If your state has its own marketplace, we suggest visiting their website for more information. You can find their site linked in the “Where can I enroll in the ACA” section.

- Washington: Now through January 15, 2022

Applicants who are eligible for Medicaid or CHIP can also enroll year-round.

SPECIAL ENROLLMENT PERIODS OUTSIDE OF GENERAL ACA ENROLLMENT

After this enrollment period ends on January 15, people can only purchase coverage if they have a special enrollment period triggered by an exceptional qualifying event such as, but not limited to:

- Becoming a U.S. citizen or legal resident
- Birth or adoption
- Involuntary loss of other health coverage
- Marriage, if your spouse already has health insurance

See here for additional information about special enrollment periods and qualifying life events.

Where can I enroll in the ACA?

- New York: New York State of Health
- Pennsylvania: Pennie
- Rhode Island: Health Source RI
- Vermont: Vermont Health Connect
- Washington: Washington Health Plan Finder

What information do I need to prepare for enrollment?

To prepare for the application, you will need:

- Information about your household size. Figure out who in your household will apply together before you start your application
- Home and/or mailing addresses for everyone applying for coverage
- Information about everyone applying for coverage, like Social Security Numbers and birth dates
- If you're receiving help, information about the professional helping you apply, such as a health insurance navigator or certified application counselor
- Information on how you plan to file your taxes in 2022
- Employer and income information for every member of your household
- Your best estimate of what your household income will be in 2022
- Policy numbers for any current health plans covering members of your household
- A completed "Employer Coverage Tool" for every job-based plan you or someone in your household is eligible for
- Notices from your current plan that include your plan ID, if you have or had 2021 Marketplace coverage.
- Document information for legal immigrants and naturalized citizens

Visit healthcare.gov for a checklist of information you'll need to provide during the process.

When will my health insurance plan take effect?

In most cases, your new plan will go into effect at the beginning of January 2022 if you enroll during the fall period.

What is the process to renew my marketplace health insurance?

If you already have marketplace health insurance in 2021, you are encouraged to log into your Marketplace account. From there, you can update your application with your expected 2022 income and household information and compare the plan you're being offered with other 2022 plans.

You can enroll in any plan available to you through the Marketplace—the one you were expecting to be automatically enrolled in or any other. Shopping around is highly recommended as premiums may have changed from 2021.

Can I automatically re-enroll in my current plan?

If you do not update your information on the marketplace and select a new plan by December 15, 2021, you will be automatically re-enrolled into your 2022 plan. If your current plan no longer exists, the marketplace will automatically enroll you into the most similar plan.

What happens if I don't enroll in a plan during this enrollment period?

If you don't enroll in an ACA-compliant health insurance plan by the end of the enrollment period (ending January 15, 2022, in most states) your buying options will likely be very limited for the coming year.

Is there a penalty for not having health insurance?

We encourage everyone without health insurance to enroll in the ACA marketplace. However, the ACA's federal individual mandate penalty has been $0 since the start of 2019, and that will continue to be the case in 2022. People who are uninsured will not face a penalty, unless they're in a state that has its own individual mandate and a penalty for non-compliance. Four states and DC impose tax penalties for not having health insurance:

- California
- District of Columbia
- Massachusetts
- New Jersey
- Rhode Island

How much does a plan cost?

In 2021, the average national monthly non-subsidized health insurance premium for one person on a benchmark plan (i.e., "Silver" plan) is $452 per month. Individuals buying for a family of four paid an average monthly premium of $1,437 for non-subsidized health insurance. Premiums may have changed for 2022 and often vary by state, region, or insurer.

You may also have more options available to you than the previous year. You can preview an estimate of the potential cost of a plan here.

Am I eligible for a premium subsidy?

Premium subsidies are generally available if your projected household income (an ACA-specific calculation) doesn't exceed 400% of the prior year's poverty level. For a single individual buying coverage for 2022, that amounts to an income of up to $51,520. And for a family of four, it's $106,000.

Is there any in-language support available?

Healthcare.gov provides limited language support. The only Southeast Asian language with any translated materials is Vietnamese. Several states like California (see below) may provide additional language support through its marketplace.

If I am under 26, can I still stay on my parents' healthcare plan?

Yes, the ACA allows young adults to remain covered by their parents' health insurance plan, even if that individual has other health insurance options available through their employer.

What if I'm already enrolled in a marketplace plan?

If you are already enrolled, you don't have to do anything. Your coverage will continue as usual. If you want to reassess your plan or apply for another plan, you can also do that through this enrollment period.

What if I have other questions?

You can often find answers to your healthcare questions here

Frequently Asked Questions: California Enrollment

OVERVIEW

Covered CA is California's health insurance marketplace that allows individuals and families to get free or low-cost health insurance through Medi-Cal or support for private health insurance.

When is the enrollment period for Covered California?

Open Enrollment for Covered California begins on November 1, 2021 and continues until January 31, 2022.

Am I eligible for coverage through Covered CA?

Any Californian can get health insurance through Covered California if they are a state resident and cannot get affordable health insurance through a job. Applicants may qualify for a free or low-cost health plan, or for financial help that can lower the cost of premiums and co-pays, depending on household size and family income.

What if I am an immigrant in California?

- Legal residents of five or more years or ‘qualified non-citizens’ have the same benefits as citizens.
- Some non-citizens who have legal immigration status but do not qualify for full Medi-Cal coverage, may still qualify for government help paying for individual coverage if their income is at or below 600% of the Federal Poverty Guidelines.
- Undocumented immigrants cannot get individual plans through Covered CA and cannot get government help paying for their coverage. However, undocumented immigrants can get public coverage through Medi-Cal up until they are 26 years old.

How much will I have to pay and what are my coverage options?

You can use Covered CA’s Shop and Compare tool to provide more information about yourself and your household and learn more about potential health coverage and eligibility.

Is there a penalty for not having health insurance in CA?

California still has an individual health care mandate, even if there is no longer a federal mandate or penalty for ACA coverage. As such, CA residents must either:

- Have qualifying health insurance coverage, or
- Pay a penalty when filing a state tax return, or
- Get an exemption from the requirement to have coverage.

The penalty for not having coverage in California the entire year will be at least $750 per adult and $375 per dependent child under 18 in the household when you file your 2020 state income tax return in 2021.

What information do I need to prepare for enrollment in CA?

To prepare for the application, you will need:

1. Proof of Social Security number (for those who have them)
2. Proof of identity
3. Proof of citizenship or status (if applicable)
4. Proof of immigration status or lawful presence (for non-citizens)
5. Attestation or proof of non-incarcerated status
6. Federal tax information (for those who file taxes)
7. Employer and income information (for everyone in your family)

You can find more information about documents to confirm eligibility.

Is there additional support available for my application or renewal through Covered CA?

You can find free and local help from a Certified Insurance Agent, Enrollment Counselor or a County Social Services Office near you.

You can also call the Covered CA Service Center, which provides additional language support in Lao, Hmong, Vietnamese, and Khmer.

What are the new Affordable Care Act subsidies under the American Rescue Plan and how do they affect California?

New and additional federal health subsidies from the American Rescue Plan will significantly reduce the share of income that Californians must pay towards their premiums.

Current Covered California consumers who receive subsidies, will pay an estimated average of $119 less per month or $1,428 less per year, per household. Uninsured Californians earning between $19,000 and $32,000 per year, can enroll in a benchmark Silver plan (with reduced cost sharing) for an average cost of $61 per month.

What can I do to see if I may benefit from the new Affordable Care Act subsidies?

Use Covered CA's Shop and Compare Tool to learn what financial help you may be eligible for.

- If you are uninsured, you must enroll through Covered California to get the new help from the American Rescue Plan.
 - If you plan to get coverage directly from a health insurance company, you can keep the same plan at a much lower price, but only if you sign up through Covered California.
 - If you are already enrolled in a plan through Covered California, you don't have to do a thing. The additional savings will be automatically applied, and you'll see lower bills starting in May.
